We do this with a method, MetodoThema©, a design process developed over years of experience.

The project

Designed by J+S, these vast executive offices in Parma combine local traditions with modern flair: the rural origins of the architecture, immersed in the countryside, have been restored with a very careful eye to preserving the structure and the original materials.

Five buildings in 100% dry wood construction, designed to be sustainable. These are characterised by a simple architectural style and intelligent use of space, and have become a distinctive feature for the whole area.

Thema's contribution to the project involved building the façade system, inserting windows and a glass walkway to connect two buildings.
